a.s.r.'s history spans almost 300 years

“The perfect storm”: Fortis collapse triggers nationalization of a.s.r.

Lessons learned in 2008

Downturn of Fortis

- Internal countervailing power is paramount
- Losing customer trust can lead to a bank-run, triggering a downward spiral
- Complexity makes things worse

Financial crisis

- Financial services are a utility
- Continuity cannot be taken for granted. Expect the unexpected
- Only accept risks on your balance sheet that you truly understand

Loss of customer trust

- Insurance products need to fulfill customer needs of today and in the future
- If you signal an emerging problem, solve it immediately

Rebuilding the company

Restoring lost functions

- Rebuild departments and functionalities: e.g. IT, HR, Risk Management
- New governance structure:
 - From 6 to 4 Executive Board members
 - New Supervisory Board
 - One shareholder
- Ended the matrix structure

Calibrate company culture

- From 17 offices to 1 headquarter
- Customers are our license to operate
- Craftmanship is the core of our insurance business
- Lowering cost is a mindset
- Value over volume as a strategic principle

Establish a robust financial framework

- Restore Balance Sheet strength
- Develop risk appetite and risk management metrics
- Implement Solvency II: Management ladder, Risk tolerance, Sensitivities
- Transparent about reporting the company

Successful IPO and selldowns complete privatization a.s.r.

Dutch State places its entire position in the market through an IPO and 4 subsequent selldowns. Total proceeds from the divestiture amounts to € 3.8 bn.

In addition, the State has received € 638m in dividends over the past years.

Conclusion

Lessons learned from the crisis:

- Organize your countervailing power
- Expect the unexpected
- Continuity cannot be taken for granted

Maintain robust balance sheet while pursuing (in)organic growth

Without fulfilling customer needs financial institutions will lose their right to exist

Become and remain disciplined on (financial) hurdle rates, e.g. ROE / ROI on existing and new business

Skilled, experienced management focused on execution and delivery

Strong solvency with high quality capital

Track record of attractive return on equity, capital / cash generation and growing dividends

Profitable LDI asset management platform with outstanding track record a . s . r .

Diversified, resilient Dutch insurer with leadership in attractive market segments

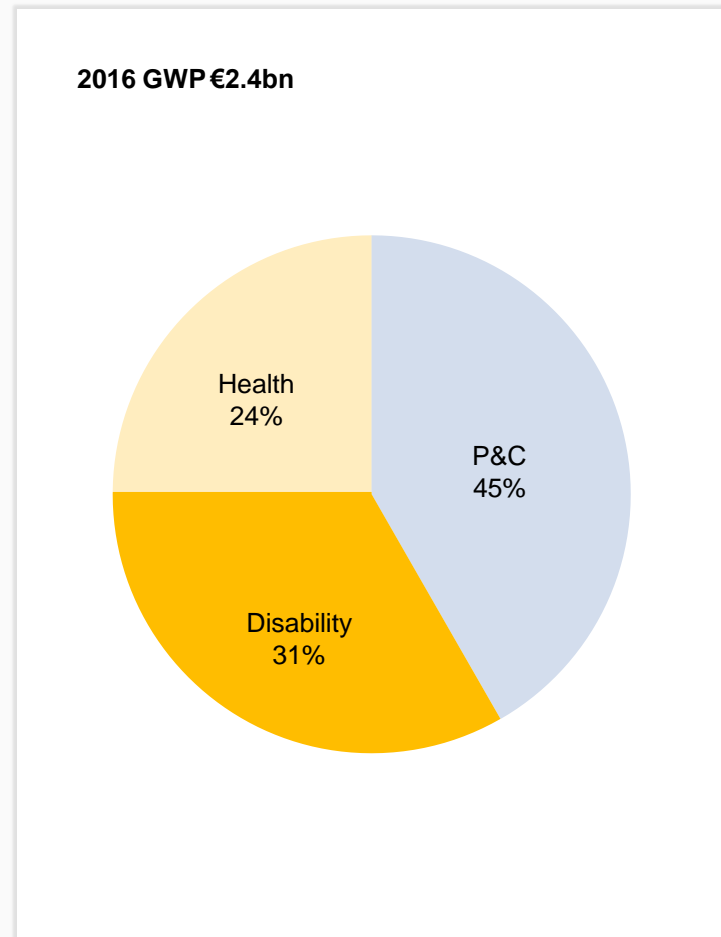

Proven cost-reduction capabilities and continuous focus on operational efficiency

Excellence in pricing, underwriting and claims management

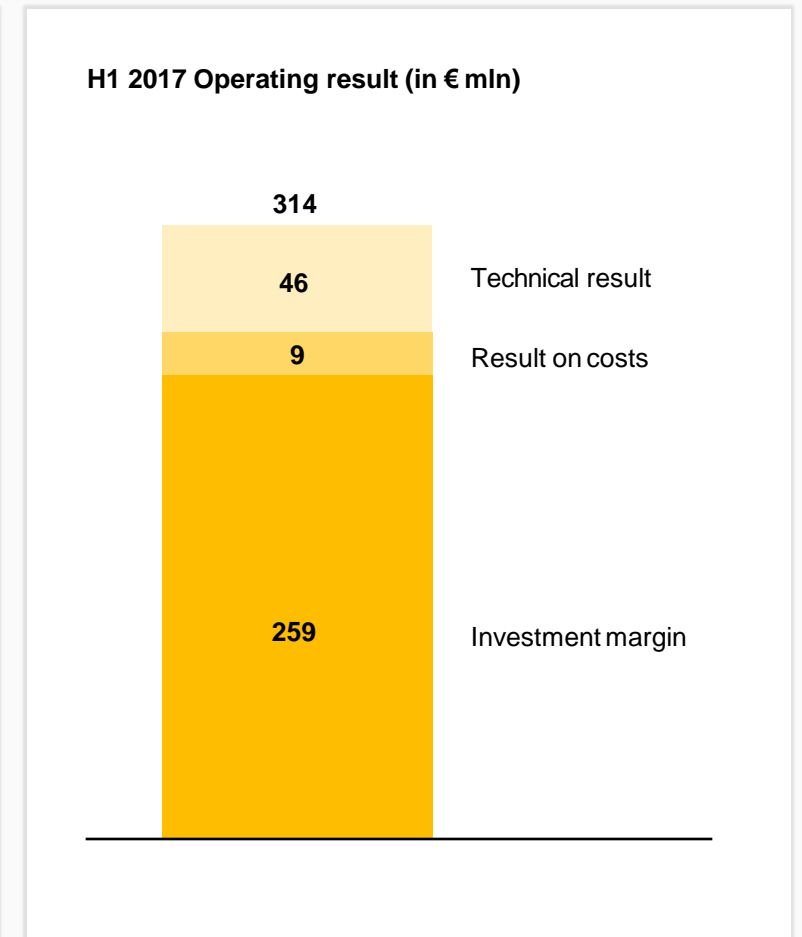

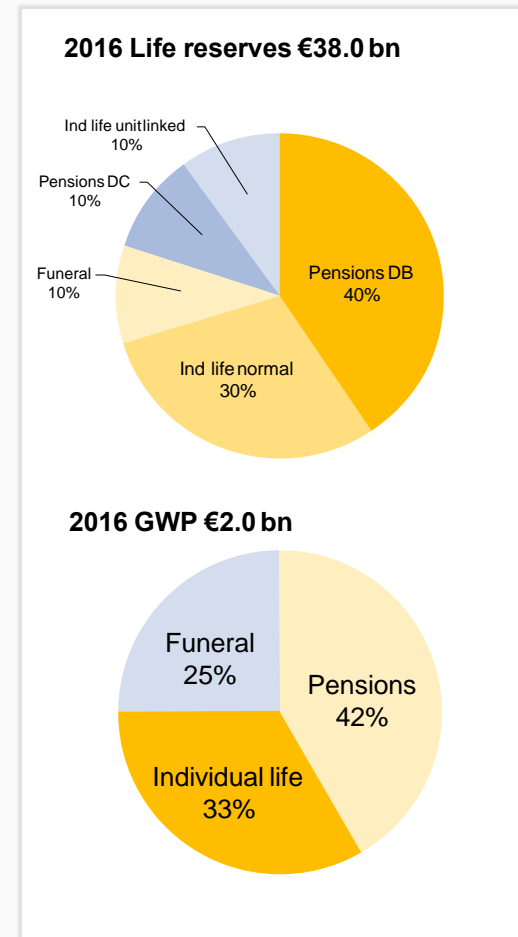

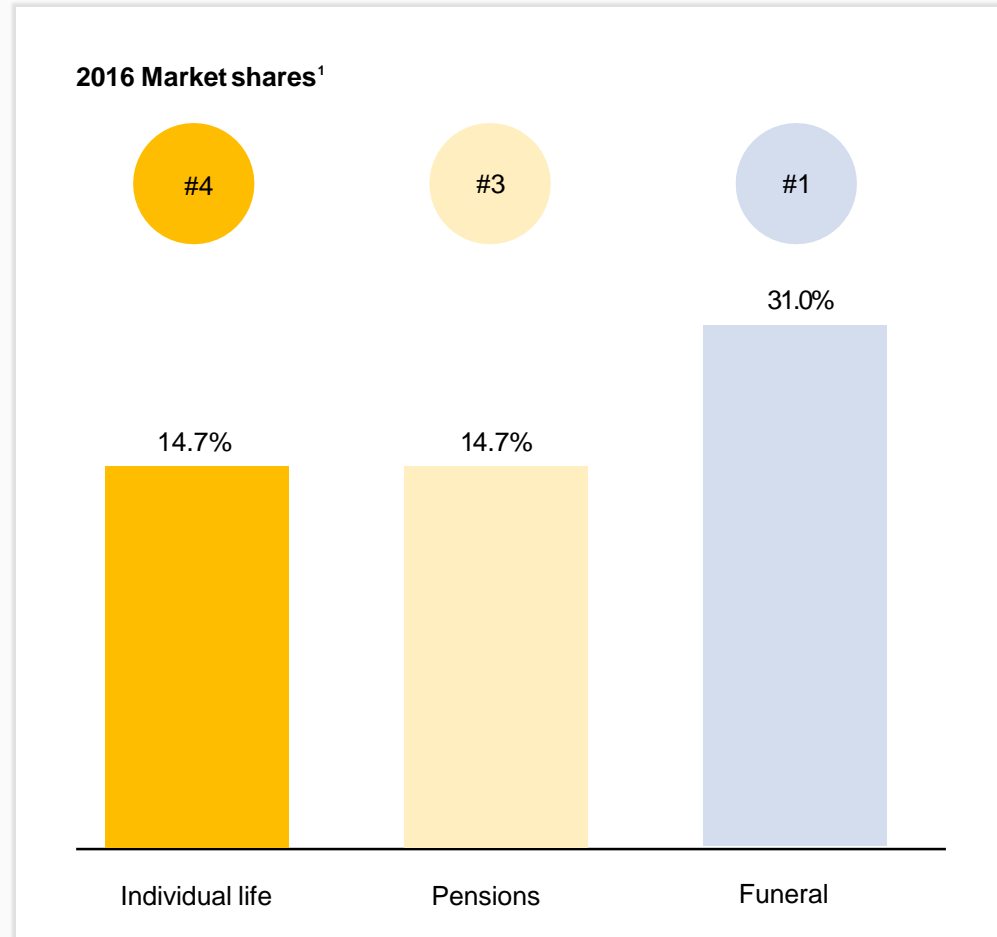

Differentiated distribution, underpinned by highly reputable brands

Appendices

Well diversified and strongly positioned Non-life business

Life: profitable service books and stable cash flows
